Ghostzilla Crack + Free

Ghostzilla Full Crack is a web browser designed for users who want to protect their personal information from prying eyes. It runs inside the windows of other applications (Outlook, for instance), making it look like you're reading your email or working on a project. How does it work? Once you perform a special combination with your mouse (go to the left margin of the screen, then to the right one, then to the first one again), the Ghostzilla Crack Free Download browser pops up, perfectly integrated in the previous window you were using. The moment your mouse cursor leaves the window, Ghostzilla Cracked Accounts disappears (and it's neither minimized to the taskbar or system tray). Ghostzilla takes out all colored text and images and replaces them with a grey scale version, so that there are no highlights. For example, if you log into a social network website, you can view an image by hovering your mouse, but the image is displayed as long as the cursor is kept over it. The hiding level of the web pages can be adjusted in the Setup menu (from level one to level six). So, the web page can still look like any other browser, with full colors and large images (in level one), but it still disappears when you move the mouse away. Moreover, Ghostzilla has a high level of security built into it, to the point when navigating becomes difficult due to the pop-up of many alert messages. You can create a user profile, so that your personal settings, browse cache, history, passwords, certificates, preferences are saved and password-protected. System memory is moderately used when Ghostzilla is running. Plus, we like the fact that the help file explains every single aspect of the program. Our conclusion is that Ghostzilla is an excellent web browser with stealth capabilities. You can use it whether you are surfing the web at a public hotspot and don't want strangers to pry, or if web browsing for personal use is restricted in your line of work. There is also a portable edition available, called Portable Ghostzilla. Ghostzilla Publisher's Description: Start Ghostzilla from any desktop, even if it's in the background. You can make the programs that you are running and their windows visible or invisible, hiding them in a "ghost". There are 6 ghost-visibility-levels that can be changed as per your needs. When the ghosts are viewed, you can select the color for their background, text and images. Ghostzilla doesn't just hide windows, it hides all visible elements (such as icons, buttons, scroll-bars and text). When you hover your mouse over the ghosts, they become visible again - no matter where you are on the screen. The ghost visibility levels can be changed without having to re-open any programs. What is Ghostzilla? Ghostzilla is an absolute web browser. It does not ask the user to choose, nor suggest the one to use. It runs as a system service and does not appear in the system tray. You can surf the web at any time and from any browser with no interruption or delay. The goal of Ghostzilla is to be as personal, stealthy, small, and memory efficient as possible. How does Ghostzilla work? Ghostzilla works as a desktop app and does not run in any other way or from the taskbar. It is very easy to use: all you need to do to start browsing is run Ghostzilla (the shortcut is just Ghostzilla.exe or Ghostzilla.bat). At the next window that Ghostzilla pops up, all your browser and content settings are kept and work as they do with any other web browser. You can add bookmarks, save passwords, and perform several other actions. Ghostzilla uses the web browser that is most similar to the normal one. That's why the Ghostzilla interface has all the colors and borders of a normal Internet Explorer browser, with a couple of exceptions: it is designed to work in the margin of another program (Outlook, for example), and it does not have the toolbar or address bar. At some point, you'll get an alert message, showing you that a web page is requesting sensitive information. Ghostzilla prompts you with a dialog box that contains one or more options. If you choose one of them, the requested information is displayed in the same prompt box. If you choose the next option, it replaces the sensitive one with a grey scale one, but you'll still see its outline. At this point, if you don't complete the request, the sensitive information will remain grey scale. If you move your mouse, it will be replaced by a new one. Hovering your mouse over the greyed out information will display it in its color again. Ghostzilla supports two levels of password protection: White spaces are not highlighted, and they are replaced by dots. So, your password will not be displayed (and you'll have to use it when browsing for sensitive information). If the web page is very sensitive (when you hover the mouse over it, Ghostzilla will display more than one alert message), you'll get more than one prompt. You can keep the same popup content as previous alerts (one of the prompts will be replaced by the same prompt). You may have up to five prompt messages at
