A: I think you can solve this in the following way. Create a new folder in My Documents (for example, GoogleEarthPro), right-click the folder and select “New”. In the dialog box, type “googleearth.exe” and click OK. In the next dialog box, enter the directory where you want to locate the file (it must be the same directory as the GoogleEarth.exe file you are using), and click OK. In the New GoogleEarth.exe form, type the following (or modify the content to the ones listed below): -ge t path /config file

%appdata%/Google/Google Earth/geconfig.xml -geauth Token
"geauthToken" -gequrdr region file "region.qcow2" -gejsrv start file
"googleearth.js" To use a new region file, type the following:
-gequrdr region file "path/to/region.qcow2" To use a region file that is updated daily: -gequrdr regionfile "path/to/region.qcow2.txt" This can be used to create a persistent, synchronized Google Earth configuration, if desired. From here. After editing this file, you need to restart Google Earth. In my test: I had to manually kill the Google Earth process to force a restart (by using task manager). I had to do this twice before it worked. Run as Administrator is required. Carlos
