Features Key:

- Description: 20 missions/levels
- 60 rounds of blood-guzzling arcade action
- Use keyboard, mouse, controller, or simple touchscreen controls
- Hints for each level
- Optionally take on the bonus scenario challenge

How to play:

Scroll bar hover attack:

- Click on a pincer cell
- Click on the cell closest to the mouse pointer
- The pincers will come at once or at odd intervals to attack the cell clicked on
- If the player is successful, the attacking pincers will return to the original position and the point total will increase

Slow attacks:

- Click on a cell
- This allows the pincers to come at a slower rate than normal

Fast attacks:

- Click on a cell
- This allows the pincers to come at a faster rate than normal

Multiplayer Help:

- If the opponent is hostile, he will not attack your creatures when they try to leave their current cell.
- If the only cell to the left of your creatures is hostile, then the creatures will attack that cell before leaving the current cell. (The only exception is if there are enemy hoppers in the path to the cell in question)
- If the closest cell to the mouse pointer is hostile, then the creatures will attack that cell before leaving the current cell. (The only exception is if there are enemy hoppers in the path to the cell in question)

Yatzy is a five-player dice game in which players attempt to get the highest number of points by rolling five dice. The goal is to have the highest score during the 30-second play period. However, it is not always advisable to roll all five dice at once because certain dice configurations result in bad combinations. Only those combinations that are good for you can be used. At the end of the game the player with the highest score is declared the winner. The winner's points are added to those of their opponents and are recorded on the scorecard shown at the bottom of the screen. The points are separated by color for easy identification. Big Change, Time for a New Look! Pixilated graphics, strange music, and a host of minor glitches. Version 1.5.3: Added the "Corrections" and "Tables" tabs. Various stability and speed improvements. New Portal theme. Improved mission system. Minor interface changes. Added a new, awesome, banner. A number of other miscellaneous improvements. It's been awhile since I've had any news on the game, so I thought I would give you all a quick update. Previous news: 1. Updates, updates, and more updates have been poured in. Overview Offworld Trading Company is a new space trading and economic simulation game designed and developed by Offworld Trading Company. It was released on Microsoft Windows, PlayStation 4 and Xbox One on October 18th, 2015. It is the first game in the Offworld Trading Company series. Storyline:Offworld Trading Company is a game about building an interplanetary enterprise. The player is the captain of a single starship that they must move around the Solar System using cargo to unlock new markets and drive a capitalist economy. The player will own and manage a fleet of up to 5 ships that are equal in worth to their own. The player must compete against other captains and use their best strategy to build and grow a company. Players have to use their funds to purchase new ship models, improve existing ones and also to purchase contracts to acquire new worlds that they then can sell in order to make profits.There are different regions in the Solar System, each containing a specific system type and planets to visit. The first objective is to acquire resources that can be converted to hard currency in the different regions of the Solar System. The more a player has in the region, the better the chance for a profit. Each system is divided into sectors that can be visited, each with different characteristics. The most profitable sectors, as well as the sectors with most sectors, are owned by corporations, who compete with each other to acquire ownership of them.Players can build hotels, mines, refineries, factories and any other type of structure. Each type of structure is has an impact on how efficient it will be in the different regions.The more developed a region is, the more habitable planets it has. Each planet is divided into zones that have different yields for the resources and terrain that they contain. Players can choose to mine the planet and harvest the resources or to harvest resources from the planet and use them in their factories. Players can build canals and other structures to transport resources to their factories. The more developed the region is, the more resources it contains, and the more profitable it is to travel there.The different types of resources that are harvested are varied and include Oil, Gold, Ore, Diamonds, and Currency. The currency that is used in the game is Gold.The planet are also assigned different weather and terrain zones. Some have deserts that produce only sand and can be used as sandboxes to increase a player's productivity. Some planets contain Cold zones, where the temperatures are extremely cold and freeze any machinery in it, and are only suited

What's new:

Ferrari Racing Legends is a new Ferrari-based driving game where you get to pilot classic cars like the 47, 512, and Enzo. It's a great game, and a great example of the iOS technologies that are rock-solid and robust. Here are some details about the game, direct from the Horsepower Network: “Ferrari Racing Legends is single player and either manual or automatic in manual mode. You play a variety of Ferrari cars against different opponents in races. Each race has five different “courses”. On most courses, you have very little time to pit and, in some cases, even to turn. But at the end of the run, the loser enters a time penalty and the winner does not. There is a time penalty box for getting scored multiple times in the penalty box. You can override the game’s choices, but it takes a lot of button pressing. It is possible to stop a car you have locked onto (you do this by pressing the brake). The faster the better, but it is more important to get an underdog car to a finish line then to be very fast. A four-hundred meter course can take a huge time penalty for going too fast to stop. In the game, there are two types of controllers: race wheel and touch controller. The controllers can be switched easily when you are not driving a race. The game lasts around ten hours. Highlights: Very real-like motion gestures. The action is fast and fluid. There are no tutorial graphics at all. Controls are very easy. It’s fast but easy to use. Races can end if you don’t respond to the opponents fast enough and/or if you get in the penalty box too much. In single play, you face five different opponents. You have to beat your opponents if you want a win. There is a time penalty in most races. There is a countdown timer during races. Heres’ a video just to show what you can do with the cars: Accuracy can be improved: There are 25 pre-programmed variables that can be adjusted at any time by holding the brake button. When your car is stopped you can adjust the following variables: You can adjust all 25 variables using this interface: Four buttons for turning, shifting up/down, and
