This page contains spoilers for the game. The Dream is an apt portrayal of Eric during his later years. As the war begins, Eric experiences the dream rerun for the third time, finally overcame his fear and defeats the Danes. Eric's memory returns of the events of Garreg Mach Monastery that happened after Hearts of the Shrine, and he awakens. Contents Dream One October 1901 In a dream, Eric walks through the woods of Garreg Mach Monastery with Falcio. Falcio tells Eric that he did the best he could to save Liscor from collapse since the Sword Saint was not found, but he does not share the details of what happened afterwards. Falcio says Liscor's Lion is aging in the Labyrinth of the Beasts, and that the new chancellor, Carola, could save Liscor through one thing: committing seppuku. Eric returns from a walk in the forest and sits down on a tree stump; and sees Falcio running down the road, dodging groups of bandits and calling for aid. Eric hurries to Falcio's side, and sees a man with a bow in his hand. The man turns around, revealing that he is Hasard who warns Eric and Falcio to leave. Masayoshi Tsuda and thousands of mercenaries rode through the village and made it into the forest with a white flag, a signal to surrender and be spared. Falcio fought the mercenaries, but Masayoshi ordered the militia to fire on the treetop Falcio escaped to, killing Caska. He and Hasard made it to a river and made it to the ship Aldes. Falcio ask his guide to lead him to Aldes, but he can't find the deck; so Falcio dives into the water and gets tangled in the rope. Eric and the guide enter the forest and knock down the fence in Falcio's path. Falcio finds the deck and then fights against the crew, saving a man on the rope. After the battle, a man bearing a white flag asks for a meeting with Falcio. Falcio takes the flag to the chancellor, who says it is a trick. The man tries to stab Falcio, but Eric intercedes, fatally injuring him. Falcio chops the thief's head off, who then attacks him with his sword. Falcio blocks the attack, but is injured
