Offline (v1.3.2) APK Ultraviolet radiation does not impair vascular endothelial growth factor in cultured cells and aortic rings. The aim of this study was to examine the effect of ultraviolet (UV) radiation exposure on the expression of vascular endothelial growth factor (VEGF) in cultured cells and in rat aortic rings. VEGF was constitutively expressed at higher levels in the C6 glioma cells than in the vascular endothelial cells. After UV radiation, cellular VEGF protein and mRNA increased in both kinds of cells. VEGF was also transiently expressed in the aortic rings upon endothelium denudation, and the increase was attenuated by indomethacin. These results suggest that VEGF is constitutively expressed in vascular endothelial cells and is induced in vascular smooth muscle cells and aortic endothelial cells by different signals. Furthermore, the expression of VEGF is preserved even by UV radiation.
